wyman has written a highly readable account of the movement of diverse ethnic and cultural groups of europe s displaced persons 1945 1951 an analysis of the social economic and political circumstances within which relocation resettlement and repatriation of millions of people occurred this study is equally a study in diplomacy in international relations and in social history a vivid and compassionate recreation of the events and circumstances within which displaced persons found themselves of the strategies and means by which people survived or did not and an account of the major powers in response to an unprecedented human crisis mark this as an important book choice wyman s book is the only one that comprehensively and sensitively depicts the plight of the postwar refugees in western europe m mark stolarik university of ottawa this is a fascinating and very moving book international migration review wyman has written a highly readable account of the movement of diverse ethnic and cultural groups of europe s displaced persons 1945 1951 an analysis of the social economic and political circumstances within which relocation resettlement and repatriation of millions of people occurred this study is equally a study in diplomacy in international relations and in social history a vivid and compassionate recreation of the events and circumstances within which displaced persons found themselves of the strategies and means by which people survived or did not and an account of the major powers in response to an unprecedented human crisis mark this as an important book choice wyman interviewed some eighty dps as well as employees of various agencies who served them he cites a broad range of published primary sources secondary sources and some archival material this book presents a useful overview and should stimulate further research journal of american ethnic history after wwii europe was awash in refugees never in modern times had so many been so destitute and displaced no longer subjects of a single nation state this motley group of enemies and victims consisted of jewish survivors of the holocaust ex soviet pows ex forced laborers in the third reich legions of people who fled the advancing red army and many thousands uprooted by the sheer violence of the war this book argues that postwar international relief operations went beyond their stated goal of civilian rehabilitation and contributed to the rise of a new internationalism setting the terms on which future displaced persons would be treated by nations and ngos from bestselling author david nasaw a sweeping new history of the one million refugees left behind in germany after wwii in may 1945 german forces surrendered to the allied powers putting an end to world war ii in europe but the aftershocks of global military conflict did not cease with the german capitulation millions of lost and homeless concentration camp survivors pows slave laborers political prisoners and nazi collaborators in flight from the red army overwhelmed germany a nation in ruins british and american soldiers gathered the malnourished and desperate refugees and attempted to repatriate them but after exhaustive efforts there remained more than a million displaced persons left behind in germany jews poles estonians latvians lithuanians ukrainians and other eastern europeans who refused to go home or had no homes to return to the last million would spend the next three to five years in displaced persons camps temporary homelands in exile divided by nationality with their own police forces churches and synagogues schools newspapers theaters and infirmaries the international community could not agree on the fate of the last million and after a year of debate and inaction the international refugee organization was created to resettle them in lands suffering from postwar labor shortages but no nations were willing to accept the 200 000 to 250 000 jewish men women and children who remained trapped in germany in 1948 the united states among the last countries to accept refugees for resettlement finally passed a displaced persons bill with cold war fears supplanting memories of world war ii atrocities the bill granted the vast majority of visas to those who were reliably anti communist including thousands of former nazi collaborators and war criminals while severely limiting the entry of jews who were suspected of being communist sympathizers or agents because they had been recent residents of soviet dominated poland only after the controversial partition of palestine and israel s declaration of independence were the remaining jewish survivors able to leave their displaced persons camps in germany a masterwork from acclaimed historian david nasaw the last million tells the gripping yet until now largely hidden story of postwar displacement and statelessness by 1952 the last million were scattered around the world as they crossed from their broken past into an unknowable future they carried with them their wounds their fears their hope and their secrets here for the first time nasaw illuminates their incredible history and with profound contemporary resonance shows us that it is our history as well
